

Campus Living

Advantages to living on campus

For some of you, this will be your first experience living on your own and assuming responsibility for yourself. For others, this may be a time of change: from a community college to that of a four-year institution. For everyone, this is a time of transition and we are dedicated to helping you achieve the best educational experience possible by facilitating your connection to educational and social opportunities in and out of the classroom.

You will have the camaraderie of sharing living experiences with other students, many of whom you might never meet anywhere else.

Sharing a common living space will give you insight into varied cultures and lifestyles, while enriching your future and stimulating your educational growth. Friendship formed in our residence halls often last a lifetime.

Students are not required to live in University Residences. However, living in a residence hall or on-campus apartment is a unique experience which provides an opportunity to meet people and explore new ideas and ways of relating to others. It is an important part of the educational process, in which students are encouraged to be involved in activities and programs, and to assume individual and community responsibility.

Professional and student staff members provide academic support, personal advisement, conflict resolution and programming. They also assist residents in developing a sense of community in which students can feel included and “at home” while in residence at Lincoln University.

Numerous student leadership opportunities are available, including volunteer positions in hall government and on committees, as well as paid positions working with residential staff. Lincoln strongly encourages students to be active, involved citizens in their residential communities.

Academic Support

Residence Life staff members partner with other student support services on campus to provide connections to academic support services. Additionally, ongoing programs offered in your hall help to make sure you have the resources and support you need in order to stay focused on your academic objectives. You will also find, study rooms and a system of quiet and courtesy hours to help you organize your study time.

Convenience

Living on campus ensures easy access to the heart of the University: your classes, the library, recreation facilities, campus activities, dining commons, café's and campus resources. This will leave you with more time for studying, fun with friends and involvement in the community.

Friendship

The residence halls are active and social places. You'll find a variety of activities designed to orient you to campus resources, with opportunities to meet new people and promote a healthy balanced life. Living among friends provides the ideal environment for exploring new ideas and ways of relating to others.

Safety and Security

We want to make sure that you feel safe and comfortable at Lincoln. The residence halls are locked 24 hours a day and staffed with live-in professionals, student paraprofessionals, and Night Security who are dedicated to supporting you.

Savings $$$

Everyone is concerned about making college affordable. On-campus living rates are reasonable and your bills are predictable (no unexpected charges for maintenance and services like cable television). Ethernet connection and local phone service are included at no additional cost. Your utility cost are stable throughout the year.

Living on campus is the best way to find support for the many challenges associated with being a busy college student.
