

Congratulations on your interest in continuing your education in nursing. In the ever-changing world of healthcare, nursing is dynamic, challenging, and increasingly important.

Lincoln University Bachelor of Science in Nursing (BSN)

- part-time or full-time
- online, flexible classes
- student interaction through campus-based seminar presentations
- designed for associate and diploma program graduates
- tailored to support working students, parents and others with family responsibilities
- one-year program, if all other university bachelor degree requirements are completed.

Through Lincoln's RN to BSN program, registered nurses build on their current knowledge and experience. Through individualized program planning and practicum experience, you'll gain role development and master The Essentials of Baccalaureate Education for Professional Nursing Practice (AACN, 2008).

Advantages of Advanced Education

Advancing your nursing career requires skill in analysis and evaluation, patient care management and evidence-based practice initiatives and a depth of professional knowledge — only achieved through advanced education.

The Power of Together

Lincoln's AAS and BSN program options are accredited by the Accreditation Commission for Education in Nursing (ACEN) and are approved by the Missouri State Board of Nursing.

Upon completion of our ACEN-accredited program, Lincoln nursing graduates are ready to enter professional nursing practice and/or pursue the next level of education, a graduate degree.
