

Dr. David Bouras, a distinguished scholar and expert in applied economics, has traversed a remarkable path of academic achievement, research excellence, and professional service. With a robust educational background and extensive experience in academia and consulting, Dr. Bouras has established himself as a leading authority in the field of applied econometrics, optimization, and international trade.

Educational Odyssey: Dr. Bouras earned his Ph.D. in Applied Economics from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Nebraska, in 2006. Prior to this, he obtained a Master of Science degree in Economic and Management Sciences from the International Center for Advanced Mediterranean Agronomic Studies (ICAMAS) in Paris, France. His insatiable quest for knowledge led him to acquire a Diploma of Specialized Post-Graduate Studies in Economic Science-Business Management/Marketing from the same institution in 1999.

Professional Voyage: Dr. Bouras' illustrious career in academia spans over two decades, characterized by unwavering dedication and exemplary contributions. He has served as a Professor with tenure at the School of Business, Lincoln University, Missouri, USA, since 2013, prior to which he held the positions of Associate Professor with tenure and Assistant Professor at the same institution. His earlier roles include serving as an Economist at the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff, Arkansas, USA, and as a Research Assistant at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Nebraska, USA.

Contributions to Scholarship: Dr. Bouras' scholarly endeavors have significantly enriched the academic landscape, with a prolific publication record in reputable journals such as The European Journal of Economics and Business Studies, Journal of Economics and Management, and International Journal of Economics and Financial Issues, among others. His research covers a wide array of topics including market power, demand analysis, risk management, and efficiency analysis, showcasing his versatility and depth of expertise in applied economics.

Academic Leadership and Service: Dr. Bouras' commitment to academic excellence extends beyond research to teaching and mentorship. He has imparted knowledge and inspired countless students through his engaging courses in business statistics, microeconomics, and applied econometrics at Lincoln University. Furthermore, Dr. Bouras has been actively involved in consulting projects, providing expert guidance in value chain analysis and market assessment for international organizations such as the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

Recognition and Awards: Dr. Bouras' outstanding contributions have been recognized through numerous accolades and honors, including Service Awards from the International Academy of Business and Public Administration Disciplines (IABPAD) and the prestigious J.B. Hassler Research Citation for Outstanding Research. His dedication to teaching excellence was acknowledged with the Outstanding Teaching Award from the Center for Agricultural & Food Industrial Organization, University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Future Endeavors: As Dr. Bouras continues his journey of scholarly inquiry and academic leadership, his ongoing research projects on topics such as the impact of COVID-19 on competition and efficiency analysis under various specifications promise to yield valuable insights for academia and industry alike.